Glades has second dry year

According to a report compiled by Dr. R. J. Allen of the Belle Glade Agricultural Research and Education Center, the Glades area is suffering through its second consecutive dry year.

This year's problems are well publicized, with the lake dropping to one of its lowest levels in history. In 1980, the area had a shortage of rain in eight of the 12 months of the year.

"Total rainfall for 1980 was 46.17 inches, a deficit of 10.83 inches below the 56. year average," Dr. Allen wrote. "Excess rain occurred in January, April, May, and November. September was the wettest month with 7.54 inches, a deficit of 1.14. The other eight months have deficit rainfall with December being the driest with .073 inches, a deficit of 0.97. June, normally the wettest month, has only 1.26 inches, a deficit of 7.80."

MARIA RULLO of Brazil, a member of the International Student Program, enjoyed the music, sights and sounds of Pahokee's Freedom Festival Saturday, July 4.

They came—quite literally—from far and near for Pahokee's Second Annual Freedom Festival Saturday, July 4.

When it was all over, organizers seemed convinced that Pahokee's young babe of a celebration is growing into a popular and robust adult.

"It went real well considering the low level of the lake," said Chamber Vice Pres. Diane Hall, referring to additional hundreds of spectators who might have been attracted by a water ski show which had to be cancelled.

"We really enjoyed putting it on. We had a tremendous amount of donations from local businesses," she said.

"We plan to get bigger and better every year," she said, adding that the festival could soon grow into a two or three day event.

Pahokee's grassy lakefront recreation area attracted thousands of restless persons, who watched sky divers, looked into booths, danced to live music, and tried their luck at catching fish.

Among those enjoying the day-long festivities were a touring group of international students.

One of the students from Brazil gave the raft race an international flavor by taking over the helm of one of the rafts.

Pahokee youngsters who had been cooling off in the lake soon swam over, latched onto the raft, and tried to push it across the course.

Despite taking an early lead over the floundering Pahokee Chamber of Commerce entry, the Brazilian pilot was soon overtaken and had to return to shore.

Ray Hattom II later accepted the winning plaque from Bob Walty for the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce, which had won the race with a contraption consisting of inner tubes, barrels, and plywood.

The day began with an early morning fishing contest for the youngsters and ended with a fireworks display in the evening. In between there was plenty to see, do

Baby needing perinatal care dies

A baby born in Pahokee's Everglades Memorial Hospital Thursday, July 2, died the following day after St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach had refused to accept the baby for perinatal care because all of its beds were occupied.

The baby, born to Mrs. Niccy Frazier of Pahokee, died while enroute to the perinatal center at Sacred Heart Hospital in Pensacola.

At press time, three babies had died around the state of Florida because of a reduction in the amount of beds available for perinatal care.

The state's nine perinatal centers have been scaling down their services in response to decreased state funding for the program.

Richard Lalone of Everglades Memorial Hospital said that he sees the cutback in perinatal service as a problem.

"If we can't send them to St. Mary's or to Jackson then we are in trouble," he said.

Patrick Lennon, administrator for Glades General Hospital in Belle Glade, said that the state legislature made deep cuts in perinatal funding and that a number of hospitals have decided to decline to participate in the program.

"Patients from the Glades area are admitted to St. Mary's on a space available basis, Lennon said, adding that St. Mary's is "making an extra strong effort to assist the people of the Glades."

Lennon said he could not recall a situation in which a patient referred by Glades General Hospital had been refused by St. Mary's.

Although the baby who died last week after being turned away from St. Mary's was a medicated baby, Lennon says the perinatal cutbacks affect all income families because fewer beds are now available.

The state will have to meet its funding responsibility for the program, Lennon said.

Ironically, Sen. Tom Lewis, R-District 27, protested

St. Mary's decision to drop out of the program in a letter to St. Mary's Chief Executive Officer Thomas F. Hennessy last week.

In a letter dated June 30, Lewis wrote:

"I was very distressed to see that St. Mary's Hospital is seriously considering dropping out of the regional perinatal center program. The reason for this decision, according to reports was lack of sufficient funding."

Lewis noted that he had been one of the leaders in starting the perinatal program in 1974.

Lewis noted that funding for the program had increased from $1.5 million to $17 million and said "it would seem to me that the problem involves more than insufficient funding."

Lewis closed his letter with the hope that the program would be retained at St. Mary's. "It is most vital that the center at St. Mary's Hospital be kept in operation," he said.

Belle Glade hosts Rice Field Day

BELLE GLADE — Approximately 75 growers and researchers from throughout Florida and the nation gathered at the University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center (AREC) in Belle Glade Tuesday for the Fourth Annual Rice Field Day.

Kenneth D. Shuler, Palm Beach County Extension Agent for the Glades presided over the annual event.

Shuler, along with scientists and researchers from AREC, California, Arkansas and representatives from the Loxahatchee Wildlife Refuge and the South Florida Water Management District presented a program that included a seminar with guest lecturers prior to the rice field day tour.

Dr. G.H. Snyder, of AREC, told the participants rice research has been conducted by the AREC-Belle Glade staff during 1980 and the spring of 1981. He said the center is studying such factors as varieties, weed control, water relationships, fertilization, seedling, planting dates and a variety of other factors.

While on tour of the rice fields planted at AREC, Dr. Snyder showed the growers a variety of rice crops planted during the months of February, March and April.

In a report prepared by Dr. Snyder for the presentation he said the study showed February crop yield was the highest and the Lebonnet variety yields generally exceeded those of other varieties.

"Lebonnet also is the most popular crop grown in the Everglades," said Dr. Snyder.

Dr. J.A. Dusky, weed scientist at AREC said both in 1980 and 1981 studies have been conducted to evaluate herbicides for weed control in rice grown in organic soil.

"Rice acreage has increased during the past four years in the Everglades, yet few herbicides are Also participating on the panel of experts was Dr. S.F. Shih, hydrologist with AREC. Dr. Shih presented information on "Rice-Water Relationships".

Economist Jose Alvarez with AREC presented a presentation on "Should I Buy A Rice Combine? An Application of Break-Even Analysis".

Dr. J. Neil Rutger, a research geneticist of Davis, Calif., told the growers about rice production and improvements in California.

Dr. Rutger said rice is a major field crop in California, being grown on 550,000 acres by some 3,000 farmers. "Most of the California rice production is in the Sacramento Valley and California rice is marketed to Asia, Hawaii, Puerto Rico as well as the mainland," said Dr. Rutger.

Ervin McIntosh, manager of the Losahatchee Wildlife Refuge spoke on the benefits of rice farming on a wildlife refuge and Chuck Wilson, a member of the Arkansas Rice Council of Stuttgart, Ark., closed out the morning seminar with a discussion on "How Do You Tell Consumers About Rice and What the Rice Council is Doing For You".

Prior to the afternoon tour of the rice fields in the Glades, AREC hosted a luncheon for the rice field day participants.

Taylor transferred to Ft. Myers

BELLE GLADE — After managing the Florida State Employment Service office in Belle Glade for the past 19 months, Joe Taylor, will be transferred to Ft. Myers.

Taylor, employed with the state for the past four years said he will serve in the capacity of Assistant Manager of the Ft. Myers' Florida State Employment Service office, beginning Monday, July 13.

Taylor said he has enjoyed working in Belle Glade but the move to Ft. Myers is an opportunity for growth in improving his career and the chance to assist with the supervision of a much larger staff.

The Belle Glade staff, Taylor said, consists of 13 state employees.

"Since coming to Belle Glade, the service center has been placed on the map as for as job placement services are concerned," said Taylor. He said the number of persons moving to the area using the Florida State Employment Service for job placements have increased tremendously.

"I am happy that I am leaving the agency with the title of being the number one employment service agency in the nation for placement services," Taylor added.

Taylor said the agency has also made great progress in the area of community relations during the past year.

"I have enjoyed living in the Glades and being a part of the community and in a sense I hate to leave," said Taylor.

In addition to serving as manager of the State Employment Service, Taylor also served as coach-trainer for a number of youth and adult boxers in the area.

As the coach-trainer at F&J Gym, Taylor has taken local boxers to a number of tournaments across the state and has had a high percentage of winners.

Taylor said he will miss the many youth and adults he is presently training but plans to open a gym for youth and adults in the Ft. Myers area also.

Taylor whose last official date at the local employment service agency is Friday, came to Belle Glade from Ft. Myers where he served as a compliance officer with Rural Manpower.

Jeff Sims to fight Jimmy Young

Belle Glade's Jeff Sims will fight former heavyweight title contender Jimmy Young Friday, July 10, at 8 p.m. in the West Palm Beach Auditorium.

Young, now ranked 7th in the world, recently defeated Canadian champion Gordon Rennie.

Just nine days prior to his fight with Sims, Young's manager decided to take on 14th ranked Marvin Stinson of Philadelphia.

Young knocked down Stinson in the first round with a left hook, opened a cut above Stinson's eye in the fifth, and went on to take a unanimous decision.

Young's manager, Joe Pozzuolo, said he has never seen his fighter in better boxing condition, and that they are ready to take on the "Belle Glade Assassin."

Jeff Sims is rated 17th in the country. Fight fans rate him as one of the hardest punchers out to fight in the heavyweight division.

Sims, who was Jerry Cooney's top sparring partner, has been sparring with Remaldo Snipes, the number four ranked heavyweight.

Sims is predicting that Young will not be around to see the fourth round of the fight.

"Don't get them in the same room together," says Chris Dundee, Sims' manager. "Somebody's going to get hurt."

Joe Taylor of F and J Gym in Belle Glade said that Sims worked out at F and J recently.

"He is very positive."

He's got a good attitude and he is ready," said Taylor. "He has sort of cooled down. He's got his head on straight."

Young figures to be Sims' toughest opponent to date, but Taylor is predicting that Sims will win by either a knockout or by a technical knockout.

"He has got to keep in mind that Young is a smart fighter. He has fought some of the best and has been able to survive," Taylor said.

Sims has a record of 14-1-0. All of his wins have been by knockouts.

Young's record is 20-4-1. Taylor said a large crowd of fight fans from the Belle Glade area is expected to make the trip to West Palm Beach to see the fight. Tickets are available at F and J Gym, located at 133 S.W. Ave. B. For further information, call 996-0188.

Womens softball results

BELLE GLADE - The Glades Women's Slow-Pitch Softball League began action on Tuesday, June 23, with a doubleheader played at Padgett Park in Pahokee.

Defending champions Miami Herald emerged the victor as the team -ok on Bel-Aire (helicopter for an 8-2 win.

Bel-Aire Helicopter, a new team in the league, is comprised of players from several of last year's teams.

Everglades Federal had an easy 22-0 win over another new team, A. Duda and Sons.

Ironically, with the few days of rainfall this year, Thursday night's game on June 25 in Belle Glade had to be postponed due to rain.

Everglades Federal played almost error-less all in topping Bel-Aire Helicopter 10-5 on Tuesday, June 30. Miami Herald whipped Duda 31-3 in the second game for its second win.

Thursday, July 2, found the teams playing at Airport Park for the league's first time.

Duda won its first game the season when Bel-Aire forfeited due to lack of players. Miami Herald's girls had an easy time battling their way to a 14-0 victory over

Everglades Federal. Jayne Meadows led the attack with four hits in four times at bat. Miami Herald was actually ahead 24-0 when the game was called in the sixth inning due to rain. The score reverted back to the end of the fifth.

Insulate your water heater from Big Bill.

Give Big Bill the cold shoulder - install a water heater insulation blanket. (Our energy audits indicate over 80% of all homes would benefit.)

You can save about $20 every year. Because the blanket reduces energy consumption by reducing heat loss.

And installation is simple. Just measure your water heater, cut the blanket to size, wrap and tape. (Extra-capacity units may require two blankets.)

So buy an insulation blanket at building supply, hardware or home center stores and departments. It should pay for itself in a year or so. After that, it will pay you. It's one more way to hold down Big Bill.

On the ERA

Is sexism in employment more prevalent than racism? The answer is yes, maybe and definitely.

I would say it depends on the job and the position, in an unskilled job the primary factor would be sex, but in an upper-level position the problem is race.

There are not only a black woman discriminated against because she is black she must face a second discrimination because she is a lady also. The there is a required opening for a minority she will be the last to be hired and the first to be fired.

She must be over and beyond qualified than the same "other minority" seeking the same job.

She is watched more than her adversary. She will be called into the office more than her adversary and chances are her adversary will be promoted at a much faster rate.

When several sisters were asked about sexual and racial discrimination, they disagreed on a lot of things, but most of them agreed that sexual discrimination is on the rise.

In a recent opinion poll, many of those participating had the same response.

"I believe sexism is more prevalent than racism," said a member of the Black Women's Task Force of the Equal Rights Amendment.

"When I started in the business world things were different but a lot has happened to ease the frustrations associated with racism," Sharon Scooby said.

Miss Scooby and many other black women feel the women's liberation movement has done a lot to bring the problems associated with sexual discrimination in the forefront. The civil rights movement did a lot to make people aware of racism. Now people have gotten to the point where they're desensitized about racism, but sexism is a different thing. People are just finding out that is exists the way it does.

One of the many things black women are doing to combat this double discrimination is the backing of ERA.

More and more black women are becoming involved in the Equal Rights Amendment passage. The Black Women's Task Force of the Committee for the ERA are urging black state legislators to vote in favor of the proposed amendment.

Black women haven't flocked to the women's movement because they have been concerned about other things.

Trying to survive is an everyday struggle for the black woman, but as black women get more leisure time they will become more involved.

Although I'm optimistic about ERA passage, I feel that there is a lot of work to be done to insure its passage, but when it is passed, that one last barrier the black woman will have to face.

The horrors of the outdoors

Some of the folks in the office were talking about the pleasures of camping out the other day.

The benefits are well known: complete escape from the horrors of civilization.

Advertising man Kim Allen decided to get away from it all this past weekend.

But after one night of sleeping on the ground and fighting bugs, he decided that he was ready for clean sheets and air conditioning again.

Kim found out what I've known for a long time. Why sleep on the ground when you can crawl into a perfectly good bed?

Besides, in the Army I had opportunity and occasion galore to enjoy the outdoors upriver and personal. I can tell you just what it's like to sleep with a mosquito between your shoulder blades. I also know what it's like to be sleeping under a pup tent and to have a rain storm come up. First the rain works its way through the canvas of the tent and then it runs under the edge of the tent, taking up all the dry spots.

I recall when my son, Dan, was in the Webelos. We were in Arizona then. Fort Huachuca was the name of the place for as signs on post proclaimed, Fort We Got Chai. Fort Huachuca was perched on the foothills of the mountain bordering Mexico. In the winter, it got downright nasty and even snowed on occasion. Up in the mountains it was even worse.

Called upon to do my fatherly duty, I decided to put my experience of sleeping on the ground to good use and accompany the Webelos on a camping expedition into the wild. We were all going to rough it.

I picked up a couple of sleeping bags and a pup tent and other essential provisions and believed that I was adequately prepared. Yes, all of us fathers and sons were going to rough it for a weekend.

Well, when we got to the campsite I saw that some of the fathers were more prepared than others.

There were fathers who had brought their tents on wheels. These were RVs complete with hot water showers, kitchens, refrigerators full of beer, comfortable beds, cooling and heating systems, and television and radio.

Not only that, some of the fathers had brought their wives along. Yes, indeed, they were prepared to rough it for an entire weekend in the wild.

Night came and they crawled into their campers and the few of us with the true spirit of Teddy Roosevelt crawled into our sleeping bags, trying to take care to avoid cacti, sharp rocks and other manifestations of Mother Nature's rugged Western beauty.

Sure enough, as night wore on it got colder and colder and pretty soon we were shivering in our sleeping bags. It was impossible to sleep. My "warm" thoughts about my fellow campers on wheels who had subverted the spirit of outdoor life was the only thing which kept me from freezing.

We survived till morning and then rushed out to huddle around a breakfast fire. Luckily, no one contracted frostbite.

That was the last time I've voluntarily gone camping.

Yes, these days I do my camping out within easy walking range of the refrigerator, stereo and television set. Give me the comforts of home.

Perhaps one day I'll once again yearn for the hard life under the pine trees. But the rest of the world will have to come around to my idea of camping out. In the meantime, it's just too dangerous out there. You could even get run over by some one trying to drive his camper to some remote spot to rough it.

Qualifying to start

Potential candidates for the three Belle Glade City Commission seats which become open this year are already beginning to sample the prevailing winds and to test the political waters.

A number of them will be splashing headlong into the campaign Friday, July 17, when qualifying begins.

Three borough seats will be contested—the seats currently held by Dorothy M. Walker of the east borough, Claude A. Tindall of the north borough, and Randy Davidson of the west borough.

Candidates and would-be candidates have an entire month to think it over as qualifying continues until Aug. 28.

The election will be held Sept. 15 and if a runoff is necessary, it will be held a week later.

Hopefully, the election will attract a healthy slate of candidates who will have a free and open discussion of the issues.

It is unfortunate that one of the central issues of the last election was the residency of one of the candidates. That matter is still tied up in court.

Hopefully, in the upcoming election residency will be addressed early on and the candidates will be able to concentrate on other matters, such as budget and planning, which have a huge impact on the residents of Belle Glade.

A look back at the history of the Everglades

GLADES OBSERVER
30 YEARS AGO
July 6, 1951

The Department of Public Safety was planning to distribute before Sept. 1, a million pamphlets explaining the new birth-month issuance of driver's licenses. It was to be one of the fastest and most far-reaching educational programs ever undertaken in the state to acquaint drivers with how the system works.

George Cason reflected back for the Observer when there was no Pahokee, no Belle Glade, no Canal Point, no Clewiston, no nothing... just Lake Okechobee, Pahokee Lake, Everglades and cattails. Not even any bass here then he said. That was when he first came to LaBelle in 1897 as a hunter and fisherman. Mr. Cason said that his father planted the first vegetable seeds ever planted in the Glades in 1903. This was on the mainland on the banks of the Ritz River which ran south from Ritz Island. The elder Cason built a house there in 1904 which was still standing in 1951 near Lake Harbor.

At a city council meeting members closed the transaction for the purchase of the E.O. Murphy property adjoining the city hall grounds. The lot which is 29,180 feet was purchased at a cost of $1,600.

Approval of a tentative budget of $2,783,296 for the coming fiscal year's budget that saw a decrease in tax millage but an increase in expenditures, was voted in by the County Commission at a meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lovell of Vero Beach were the house guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lovell and family. Sam, who was agriculture instructor in one of the Miami schools that last year had been accepted for a position in the Vero Beach High School. Mrs. Lovell was to teach in the elementary school there.

W.A. Kendrick, new athletic coach for the Pahokee High School conducted his first meeting with the prospective Blue Devil football team at the High School Building.

A "Talent Show Night," was held on opening night of the year for the Prince Theatre and guests who won first and second place prize. Melvin Tillis, cowboy instructor.

Members of the Pahokee Methodist Church held an official reception for the new pastor, Rev. Ed. Statham and his wife.

G.C. Crouch with a nine car train and pile driver was in South Bay making extensive repairs to the Florida East Coast Railway trestle over the North New River Canal and also repairs to the track between South Bay and Lake Harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Thompson and sons, Curtis, Jr., and John of Belle Glade left that week for a short vacation with relatives in Oklawaha, Ga. from where they would go to the mountains.

THE EVERGLADES NEWS
50 YEARS AGO
July 10, 1931

A site was being cleared for the lumber yard Henry Brooker was to build on the lake side of the Canal Point-Pahokee road to replace the buildings burned two weeks before. The site was opposite the Cox grocery store.

A fire had arrived for the fire truck at Belle Glade and was ready for action. The new badge were also in and were to be given to the members of the Belle Glade volunteer fire department at the first regular meeting. In a period of world-wide business depression at the time, the excellent financial condition of the upper Everglades was indicated in the fact that its bank, the Bank of Pahokee, oldest bank in Palm Beach county, had larger deposits on the first of July than it over had at a corresponding date in the ten years of its existence.

It was a warm Fourth of July in the upper Glades, in fact it was reported to be hot. The Everglades experiment station three miles south-east of Belle Glade, registered a temperature of 97 degrees.

It was reported in the Everglades News that while two Canal Point boys—Donald Kirkpatrick and Nathaniel Meske were fishing in the St. Lucie canal territory they killed a moccasin snake. The distended shape of the snake led them to open it for examination and they found 72 baby snakes.

How met Jerry Falwell and John Stennis

When I tell you this, I'll be admitting that I'm pretty green around the ears, but I just got back recently from my first over-two-week vacation.

I've experienced one-week vacations and three- and four-day holidays before, but never a full-fledged two-week one before. It was fun and some interesting coincidences occurred along the way. (Here comes another "What I did on my summer vacation story, right?")

The first week of our hiatus we spent showing my in-laws around our beautiful adopted state of Florida. We went to Key West and tried to go to Flamingo in the Everglades National Park. We made it to Flamingo, but the mosquitoes were so bad, we abandoned our camping and sightseeing plans.

The second week, we went to Washington, D.C. On our way, we stopped to eat on Savannah, Georgia's renovated waterfront, at a shrimp place. On our way back to our car, a TV newsmen stopped me for a man-on-the-street interview.

SCOTT

"What do you think of the baseball strike?" he asked.

We stayed overnight in the Savannah area, losing about five hours of driving time, just to see me make the 11 O'clock news on that town's CBS affiliate.

At another stop, in a Shoney's Big Boy restaurant in Charlottesville, Va., we were waiting to be seated by "our host," as the sign at the entrance asked. I looked over at a man in a three-piece suit, thinking he was possibly our host. But he was using the pay phone, so we wasn't the man.

But he looked an awful lot like Jerry Falwell, the Baptist minister from Lynchburg, Va., who is the leader of the Moral Majority. My wife implied that I was wrong, just like all the times I see late-show movies and say that certain big players were really Marion Brando or Lawrence Olivier in early, pre-fame appearances.

When he came by our table, I asked him if he were who he was, and he was. Falwell happened to be in town in relation to activities his son, a student at the University of Virginia (in Charlottesville) was doing.

In the nation's capital, most of the senators and congressmen were in town for the crucial budget votes that we have been reading about in the newspapers.

Scott Ellis—

We met Florida's Sen. Paula Hawkins, saw Sen. Lawton Chiles in the Senate Office Building, and took a picture of a very old Sen. Barry Goldwater hobbling down the steps of the Capitol Building.

But the most cordial politician we met on Capitol Hill on our trip was Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi. He gave us a ride in the Senators Only elevator, and was very charming to my wife.

We also paid a visit to Sen. Edward Kennedy's office. Most people feel strongly about Kennedy—you're either strongly for him or strongly against him; there just isn't much middle ground. Violent hate or deep devotion.

The receptionist in his office said Kennedy received about 700-plus walk-ins a day, roughly triple the average most senators get. When we saw Kennedy walk onto the Senate floor, we noticed that all the people in gallery above riveted their gaze on the last of the Kennedy brothers. The Kennedy name and Teddy Kennedy as well, still have magnetism and fascination for most Americans, even though liberalism is out of vogue right now.

We spent our vacation in Washington, seeing all our national institutions and shrines, breathing in the spirit of democracy at the heart of the free world. Laura said it was an educational vacation. It was an inspiring one too.

RED, WHITE, AND BLUE colors filled the skies above Lake Okeechobee at Pahokee Saturday night, as the third annual Freedom Festival exploded to a close about 9 p.m. July 4. Many spectators didn't wait for the official fireworks, setting off hundreds of their own throughout the day at the Marina. Fireworks, sold by the Business and Professional Womens' Club of Pahokee, were available all day at the Festival.

According to a recent government survey, heart disease mortality has dropped steadily for close to 30 years.

REV. DAVID T. EVANS
PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

We are recognized by our voices, our walk, our clothes, as well as our face. A baseball player can be recognized by his swing, number, or batting stance. A soldier is recognized by his uniform, in fact in battle he must wear it or he is captured he may be shot as a spy.

However, there are times when we fail to recognize others. Children who are angry from their grandparents for a while will not recognize them.

People who are famous will travel incognito so that they will not be recognized. Recognition is important if many people know a certain person. Now Christ came into the world but they knew him not. This happened in spite of the notoriety he had been given by John the Baptist and by His miracles. People who didn't want God to interfere except on their terms admitted that Christ didn't fit the picture that they had of a deliverer.

Perhaps it is easier to understand why people in the time of Christ didn't recognize Him as the one Messiah than for us to fail to do so. For nearly two thousand years He has been identified and followed with varying degrees of loyalty.

The classic case of disloyalty was Peter's three-fold denial. A man who had lived and traveled with Christ for months or even years professedly denied Christ.

Then even after the resurrection he and Paul were eating with Gentiles in Antioch when some of the Jewish-Christians came in. Peter acted like he didn't know Paul or the Gentiles. The approval of men seems to be of more importance often times than that of God. Those of us who have accepted Christ enter alliance to Him. It is usually not long before we lose that loyalty. While we don't wear the uniform of Christ we ought to act like we know the one we follow.

We can expect the world to reject Christ but He has come right to us. Right in the midst of the seeming most loyal believers there is defection when things don't go right. Probably the place where people feel that they can't vent their feelings in the most unloving way is in church groups.

Christ has said where two or three are gathered in His name he will be in their midst. Don't we forget His presence or fail to recognize Him because our thoughts are selfish and worldly centered?

There is hope even in our disloyalty and our failure to recognize Christ. He comes to us and refuses to be shut out. If we accept Him we are able to become children of God where we are aligned with the divine plan instead of man's.

Anything that is of man is tainted by the disloyalties of the world. We must continually draw ourselves back to Christ.

One of the biggest businesses in America today is the insurance business. You can insure yourself against almost any contingency. You can protect your property, insure an outdoor meeting against loss of revenue, a crop against hail.

There is a way to protect your future forever and that is by accepting God's plan of eternal life. Frances Thompson wrote the poem "Hound of Heaven." Christ is likened unto a relentless hunting dog who pursues you until He finds you and you realize it is He for whom you have been looking all the time.

God offers you a new birth in Christ—a new life. The writer of the parables of John tells us that is what we believe we are of God.

What is this new life and what does it mean to be of God? The new life begins and continues forever. It is good now but it gets better.

Why is this? Does it mean we will get all we want? Will we have good health and be successful? No, not necessarily, but it could include these things. The real meaning is that God becomes the motivation and center of our lives.

With God as our center of influence we are not under the dominion of worldly pressures. Today we must be protected against this insidiously increasing influence or our systems will not be able to take it.

Let God guide your life and let Him lead as one of His children into a fruitful existence which leads to eternal glory.

Problems... Problems

People decide when they are a baby who wants to leave the world of the world on his shoulders. What can be possibly be thinking about that makes him seem to be a problem?

His thoughts probably aren't very serious, for babies often make delightful and comical poses that relieve the family photo album.

But babies grow up and become adults, with real problems and difficult decisions to make.

Don't forget, as your baby matures, to emphasize those things that will enable him to cope with his future. Don't forget love, discipline, understanding... and especially, don't forget his spiritual training.

CREDIT PROBLEMS?

If your loan application to purchase a new or used car was turned down by the bank or other lending institution, the Stewart's may have good news for you. For a limited time, we have over $200 million dollars available for auto loans. Credit requirements are more liberal than what you've probably experienced. Terms are longer, and no down payment is necessary. Interest is well below prime lending rates charged by most banks.

Call now and drive home today in a new Pontiac, Toyota, Mazda, Fiat or Peugeot. Call for an appointment or come in. Ask for Mr. Foster, Special Finance Manager.

GOSPEL SINGING GROUP TO APPEAR

Power and Light Unlimited at CUMC

Power and Light Unlimited, a singing group from Hammond, La., will be presenting a ministry of music at the Community United Methodist Church of Belle Glade Sunday, July 12, at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to the worship service. A love offering will be taken.

Why attend church in the summer?

BELLE GLADE—"Why attend church in summer or anytime?" will be the subject of a sermon by Dr. David T. Evans, pastor of the Everglades Presbyterian Church of Belle Glade, at 11 a.m. on Sunday, July 12.

Dr. Evans has planned this service for the curious, the lazy, the non-vacationer or those who would like to be, and those who don't have anything else to do and of course the faithful, who are encouraged to invite their non-church going friends and neighbors to the service.

Dr. Evans said the service will be informal but in the cool sanctuary of the church located on N.W. Ave. L on North Main St.

"Only old favorite hymns will be sung such as 'Wonderful Words of Life,' 'Softly and Tenderly Jesus is Calling' and 'Amazing Grace! How Sweet the Sound,'" said Dr. Evans.

"I know that many people are out of town but there are a number who are in town because their jobs and responsibilities keep them here. This service will be brief but enjoyable and I hope some will come and slip in the back of the church," Dr. Evans added.

"Also I want people to keep in mind that God may rest on the seventh day, but he doesn't take a vacation even it we do," Evans continued.

The morning worship service will be followed by a potluck dinner in the fellowship hall. "Come and bring your dish and enjoy Christian fellowship," said Dr. Evans.

Trash schedule

BELLE GLADE—City of Belle Glade trash crews will be working in the Northwest section of the city beginning Monday, July 13.

Sanitation Supervisor Anthony Williams said he would like to remind all residents to please place leaves in plastic garbage bags and to refrain from placing garbage on trash pick-up sites.

Curbside trash pick-up for trash in plastic bags will be available for residents living in the Southwest, Northeast and Southeast sections of the city on Wednesday, July 15.
